How to make a request for advice from the Panel

The panel is free to access by all staff contracted to work for the YQSR or the Improvement Academy. It is also available to other interested parties (e.g. NHS staff, academics) working on initiatives related to quality and safety, by request, and depending on agenda availability. Funding may be required if these requests require input from the panel that is additional to normal panel meetings.

1. Request a slot on the panel’s agenda
   Contact either panel convenor: Liz Thorp (YQSR) or Claire Marsh (Improvement Academy), to request an agenda slot. Requests should be made at least a week before panel meetings. The earlier the better.
   liz.thorp@bthft.nhs.uk / claire.marsh@bthft.nhs.uk

2. Prepare and circulate documents beforehand
   If staff wish to circulate any documents or questions prior to the meeting, these should be presented in a format accessible to a lay audience, and circulated with adequate time to allow panel members to read what is circulated and ask questions if necessary before the meeting.

3. Attend the meeting
   Staff should attend the meeting in person and present their requests for input in an accessible manner, allowing panel members to voice their opinions, and should respect these different perspectives. Adequate time should be allocated for discussion and questions/answers.

4. Report progress at a later date
   Staff tabling an item should report back to the panel at a later date regarding progress, via email or subsequent meeting as appropriate. If possible, the process for this progress report should be agreed at the first panel meeting attended.

The Yorkshire Quality & Safety Patient Panel

About the panel

The aim of the panel is to support the Yorkshire Quality & Safety Research Group (YQSR) and the Improvement Academy (IA) by providing informed patients’ (and their carers) perspectives to researchers and improvement specialists throughout projects. The panel currently comprises 7 members of the public, each with a wealth of knowledge about health services in the region (currently West Yorkshire focussed but membership is expanding). Members are well connected to other forums, networks and groups such as Healthwatch, chaplaincies, NHS Boards, community groups and various health service user groups. The panel are therefore able to draw not just on their own personal experiences of care, but from an understanding of the wider populations’ needs, priorities and concerns. The panel is chaired by a lay member - Ruby Bhatti, and convened by two members of staff - Liz Thorp (YQSR) and Claire Marsh (Improvement Academy).

What advice can the panel provide?

- identifying priority areas for projects
- identifying, accessing, recruitment and involvement of patients and the public in individual projects
- communicating using lay language
- dissemination of project findings

As well as providing guidance on these specific areas, the panel can help researchers and improvement specialists to develop a PPI plan for their project, using the template contained in the accompanying guide: ‘A step-by-step planning template for improvement specialists and researchers’. This supports innovative methods of involvement tailored to different projects.
